Moseley said he did not advocate use of the army in these situations, explaining "that comes later." An aid of Moseley declined to let im drink from a glass of water provided for the witness.

This incident occurred after the General asked Rhea Whitely, committee counsel, whether he would "guarantee" the water supply. The aid, who refused to identify himself to reporters, warned the General: "Don't touch it."

The incident was without immediate explanation but it recalled to some present at the hearing that on at least one previous occasion Moseley had been in fear of his life.

Yesterday's Testimony Testimony was developed by the committee yesterday to show that numerous self-styled patriotic organizations were seeking to have Moseley assume their leadership and unite them in a campaign against what he called the "disease of Communism." He declared emphatically, however, that he had declined such offers.

Shown excerpts from speeches he had made in various cities since his retirement last fall and in which he criticised Jews, Moseley said: "No one has ever written me challenging the accuraccy of my state-Moseley was drawn into the in-

"When the next election rolls around, there'll be many members who'll have a most difficult time laughing it off."

Arguments for and against the controversial pension plan were aired in the day-long debate, which at times became turbulent. The bill was brought up under carefully laid plans of the Democratic leadership, requiring the House to accept it or reject it without changes.

This strategy, it was generally conceded on Capitol Hill, was, designed by the Democrats to force Republicans to make known their position on the plan. More Repubicans than Democrats have active Townsend clubs in their districts. ome members contended.

House opponents of the measure for the most part criticised it as impractical and too costly for the nation to undertake. Its supporters, on the other hand, asserted i ould provide not only adequate pensions for the deserving aged, but also would stimulate business recovery and thus cut the costs of elief.

Merriment ended the discussion everal times. Opponents laughed when Representative Short (Rep.). Missouri, said: "This bill was conceived in ignorance, born in obscurity and destined to oblivion."

In the parade of members to the House microphones, Representative Doughton (Dem.), North Carolina, said the bill would impose "the heaviest tax ever levied in all our history." He declared that it came from "cockeyed, crackpot, selfish onomists."

Representative Oliver (Rep.) Maine, agreeing, said "the Townsend principle recognizes the need of underwriting our economy on cash rather than a debt basis." Representative Cooper (Dem.) Tennessee, charged that "the old people have been deceived and misled" by supporters of the Townsend movement into believing "they will eceive pensions of $200 a month." Various proponents estimated the ension would be about $50 a month at the start.

This led Representative Schafer (Rep.), Wisconsin, to assert that Dr. Townsend was "taking the crumbs from the old people, hold-

Japan in War-for Embargo on Arms Sales.

CLEVELAND, June 1 (AP) .-The United States is a "partner with Japan" in the Chinese-Japanese conflict, the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. declared yesterday. The assembly defeated proposals to petition President Roosevelt to forego "military demonstrations" at the visit of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth in the United States, and to protest to Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain against creation of an Arab state in Palestine.

Resolutions against sale of ob-scene literature and calling for economy in administration church boards were referred to assembly groups for study.

TREASURY STUDYING

Looking Into Feasibility of Bill Providing for Aid to Small Business.

WASHINGTON, June 1. (AP).— often less a nuisance to society than a man half drunk." Secretary of the Treasury 'Morgenthau said today his staff was looking into the feasibility of a bill by Senator Mead (Dem.), New York, to provide Federal insurance for bank loans to small businesses.

The Treasury wants to be pre-pared, he told reporters, to make a policy statement in case Congress or President Roosevelt requests it. ,The Senate Banking Committee, meanwhile, heard a dispute on how much money the proposed program would involve.

Senators Adams (Dem.), Colorado, suggested the Government might be called on to back $15,-000,000,000 to $20,000,000,000 of loans. Wagner's View of Proposal.

Chairman Wagner (Dem.), New York, and Senator Mead disagreed, saying that, even with $4,000,000,-000 of Government insurance on private housing available, many ome mortgages were not insured Wagner predicted that Government insurance of bank loans to small businesses and industries would sharply reduce interest rates, for many borrowers. Mead told reporters that Su-preme Court Justice William O. Douglas, SEC chairman, had been ne of the original sponsors of the Wagner said Federal insurance would cut loan rates, after Representative Allen (Dem.), Pennsylania told the committee vesterday hat banks could not make the ong-term loans required by small firms and that other financial agencies charged from 15 to 18 per cent

nterest. "Banks have in some instances refused to make these loans to business," Wagner said, "and then made funds available to finance companies at 2 and 3 per cent which in turn charged 15 to 18 per

HOLC and FHA Operation. Wagner said Government financing in other fields had greatly reduced interest charges and spurred

"The Home Owners Loan Corporation cleaned up the whole situation so there is not any 20 and 30 per cent interest charged on second and third mortgages," he said.
Similarly, he said, the Federal Housing Administration had reduced "rates down to 4 per cent in many instances" by insuring private housing mortgages.

Wagner said the FHA "has broken the jam and money is going into onstruction at a very satisfactory

The Mead bill would authorize the RFC to insure 90 per cent of loans up to $1,000,000. Interest rates would be held to 4 per cent with repayment in from one to 10

FUNERAL HELD FOR MAN FATALLY BURNED IN BED

Edward Henry Dempsey, Who Died April 16, Was Identified by Nephew Yesterday. Funeral services were held today for Edward Henry Dempsey, who died of burns April 16 after his bed caught fire in a room at the Marion-Roe Hotel, 508 Pine street. Firemen said apparently he had been moking in bed. He had registered at the hotel as John A. Clark of St. Charles. The Sheriff there was unable to find anyone who knew Clark. The body was kept at the Morgue until May 4, when it was turned over to the anatomical board and then to St. Louis University School of Medi-cine. Yesterday police of the hotel squad learned the man's name night have been Dempsey. J. Joyce, vice-president of the Joyce Surveying Co. and a nephew of Dempsey, identified the body at the university. Dempsey, 62 years old and a former postal clerk, lived with a sister, Mrs. Mary E. Joyce, at 5827 Julian avenue. She reported him missing May 22, saying he had left home Cornetery.

"They are given hard usage and must not get slick, as the cars often are operated at high speed. To have tires in good shape is neces sary for safety," he said.

What Would You Do as Trustee in These Circumstances?

TERE are typical illustrations of the intimate human problems with which trust officers must deal. How would you solve them if you were trustee?

She Can't Get Along with Her Aunt

M is a girl of 15. She is beneficiary of a substantial trust. Her parents are not living and she has been making her home with her aunt. Her relations with her aunt have become increasingly difficult and as a result she has asked the trustee, which is also her guardian, to let her share an apartment with one of her school teachers who is an intelligent young woman of fine character. The child is unusually mature, well behaved, a good scholar and has an attractive personality. Her aunt is bitterly opposed to her proposed plan. What would your decision be?

" Is It Throwing Good Money After Bad or Is It Saving a Business?

Young X inherited a small business from his father. Due partly to general business conditions, partly to changes in production methods of competitors, and partly to his lack of experience, the business has lost money in every year since young X took charge. He is beneficiary of a $50,000.00 trust under his grandfather's will. This trust will terminate when

> X attains age 35 but the trustee may pay the principal to him at any time after age 25

if the trustee believes such payment to be in his best interests. He has just attained age 25 and has asked for the entire sum to be used for plant modernization and working capital. If you were trustee what would your decision be?

Should the Principal Held for a Minor Child be Risked in His Mother's Business Ventures?

Mrs. W is a widow of 35. She receives an income of about $200.00 per month from a trust. Upon her death the principal will be paid to her son provided he has then reached age 30, and if he has not reached age 30 it will be held in trust for him until that age. He is now 10 years old. His mother has a talent for dress designing and wishes to withdraw $10,000.00 from the principal of the trust to buy an interest in a dress manufacturing business. Her husband's will authorizes the trustee to encroach upon the principal for her proper support and to meet emergency expenditures. If you were trustee, would you advance the $10,000.00 requested?

These cases are hypothetical. They illustrate the kind of problems a trust officer encounters. They are not set forth as particularly difficult problems, but merely as illustrations of the intimate personal nature of trust service and of the intermingling of financial, business and personal problems which are involved in trust service.

Problem of Consumer Demand. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

the cause of depression,

At a certain point in the economic history of any people, there is a time when economic structure is in equilibrium. That is the point where normal consumer demand is stabilized, and production can of this uninflated demand.

Now, when people are led to overbuy, disequilibrium is established, for then production must expend in cash or on short-term loans sufficient funds to produce for the exaggerated desires of consumers, who will not or cannot pay except over a long period of time. if the consumer paid in cash, there would still be a loss to production, for in any sudden, overnight and impermanent increased demand, the expenditures for capital goods incident to the inflated demand would exceed the income from con-*sumers' base payments in most cases. The purchase of heavy machinery, expensive processing, etc., must depend on an assured and steady consumer market for

We thus see that capital reserves are depleted to a perilous pressure point when consumer demand is increased. Too, at the same time that reserves are deinvestment, the production rate necessary to maintain or renew income will decline, for, having purchased for years ahead, consumers will not be in the imbe curtailed. FEW COOKING TRICKS HELP TIDE OVER YOUNG BRIDE

The young bride who is starting out in a spanking new kitchen needs a few cooking tricks to help tide her over those first weeks when cooking for two comes perilously near disaster. These have been tried and found very true.

Cornmeal adds crispness and lightness to waffles. If you have no recipe using cornmeal, to a wheat flour recipe add a quarter of a cup of cornmeal for every two cups of flour. A good white sauce is a cook'

Super Market. Here's why: We believe in low prices every single day (not a few specials today that are marked up tomorrow). We buy direct from food producers, instead of paying extra money for in-between profits. This method of buying saves you money. You don't pay for credit losses at AGP, because we have no charge accounts. Neither do we have expensive fixtures or delivery service - these features would only increase your food costs; they would not increase the goodness of the food you buy. That is why AGP eliminates them. So, don't let a slim budget daunt you-it will buy more than ever at AGP Super Markets. Come in today—buy all your food needs and save money! ROLLED RIB ROAST

Whether you select a standing rib kinds of cloth, especially white, and ville Republican, roast or a rolled roast of beef is a in most papers, your own preference. As ou know, both are good. emakers prefer to have the oast is put in the oven, form natural rack. Other equally fastid ious housewives like the rolled roast better. They declare it roasts re evenly and they like the ease of carving. Just slice it across the

The roasts are cooked in the same way, uncovered, of course and in a slow oven. But the rolled roast requires just a little longer cooking time because the bones, which are conductors of heat, have been removed. Remember that. Usually, 10 to 15 minutes longer time per pound is required toasting a boned cut.

Rolled Rib Roast of Beef. Season the roast with salt and Place it, fat side up, on a rack in an open pan. Make a small incision through the fat covering and insert a meat thermometer so that the bulb reaches the center of the roast. Do not cover the roast or add water. Place the meat in a slow oven (300 degrees) and roast intil done. The meat thermometer will register 140 degrees for a rare roast, 160 degrees for a medium roast, and 170 degrees for a well done roast. Allow 28 to 30 minutes to the pound for cooking a rare roast; 32 to 35 to the pound for a medium, and 37 to 40 minutes to the pound for a well-done roast.

The portion of a beef roast left after the first serving usually goes to make sandwiches. In fact, the thrifty homemaker usually selects a roast large enough to provide for more than one meal. Here is an unusual way of serving

SINCE I'VE DISCOVERED

AND BRIGHTER COLORS.

Crust Should Be Tender and Flaky and Should Have Little Handling.

Cherries are ripe and in the next few weeks cherry pies and tarts will rank high as dessert favorites. To make a cherry pie with a crust that is tender and flaky and with a filling that will not dissolve in rivers of juice as soon as it is cut is

The first step for a tender crust is not to overmix the ingredients. Care begins with adding the fat to the flour. They should be mixed lightly until the mixture resembles coarse bread crumbs. Amateur pie makers usually stir the mixture so thoroughly that the flour is heavily coated with fat and cannot absorb water added. To make a successful filling of fresh fruit combine three and onehalf cups of prepared fruit, one and one-half to two and one-half tablespoons quick cooking tapioca, one to one and one-fourth cups sugar, dependent upon the tartness of the fruit, one-fourth teaspoon salt and one tablespoon melted butter Let stand for 15 minutes or while the pastry is being made.

Here is a recipe for plain pastry: Plain Pastry. One and one-half cups of flour, ne teaspoon of salt, six tablespoons of fat, enough cold water to hold he ingredients together.

Have all the ingredients cold. Sift the flour and salt together. Then cut the cold fat into the flour us-ing two knives for a pastry blend-Sprinkle the water over the flour-fat mixture a little at a time pushing aside the moistened partcles while tossing mixture with a knife or fork. Guard against adding too much water. Using a light, quick motion, press the moistened dough into one piece. Flour the board and rolling pin slightly. Turn the dough out onto the slightly floured board and lightly flatten the surface to make rolling out easier. Save half of the dough for the upper crust.

Roll with the rolling pin from he center to outer edge using a light, quick motion and pressing on a different part of the dough each time. Occasionally lift crust from board.

When it is large enough for the pie, fold the crust in half, lift it up, place on pan and unfold into lace. Press out all the air bubbles from underneath the crust, beginning to press at center of the pan and working toward edge. Roll out the upper crust and cut small slits to allow steam from the pie to escape. Many people have ndividual methods for marking the top of their pies. Place the cherries in the under crust. Add upper crust, pressing the edges of the upper and lower crusts together. Sogginess is one hazard to overcome. Brushing the lower crust with melted butter or sprinkling a little flour on the crust will help to forestall this trouble. Thickening the cherry juice will help to prevent leakage. Granulated tapoca is a good thickening agent, Miss Henderson says, since it does not form soggy lumps sometimes made by flour or cornstarch thickening. A cherry mixture of jelly-like consistency is recommended. Bake pie at 450 degrees Fahrenheit for the first 10 minutes and then change to 425 degrees Fahrenheit for 25 to 30 minutes, or until pie

VERSATILE WAFFLE A PROBLEM SOLVER

Make a Breakfast, Supper. or Luncheon:

Spring breakfast may be the gayest meal of the day. With morning sunshine streaming through crisp curtains, spring daffodils on the table, colorful china and good food, the morning grouch and frayed temper should vanish into thin air.

need not mean that the first meal of the day should be cut to a minimum. A chilled fruit juice or fruit, a cereal, eggs in some form, with an accompaniment such as bacon, ham, sauted kidney or meat cake. The prospect of waffles for breakfast is always a pleasant one

Waffles are so versatile that they easily solve the menu question morning, noon or night. At breakfast, crisp waffles and sizzling bacon are always welcome, while fruited waffles are especially delicious for luncheon. Unexpected guests will think you a clever hostess when, in a matter of minutes, you have a tasty hot supper of creamed shrimps on golden cheese waffles.

A desirable quality in waffles is crispness. This depends both upon amount of flour used and the length of baking time. Waffles ontaining more flour require less time for baking. When more liquid is used, the waffles are baked longer or else the baked waffle is limp and soggy.

Plain waffles may be made more nteresting by varying the sauces and toppings served with them. A new "face" for waffles, and a French one, is achieved by sprin-kling powdered sugar over the top and then two or three teaspoons of lemon juice. Hot honey is another popular topping to serve.

Waffles can prove very helpful when planning the dessert course. Chocolate waffles topped with vanilla ice cream and chocolate sauce or whipped cream really hit the pot. Simply add six tablespoor of cocoa to a standard waffle ecipe which uses two cups flour. Banana waffles are a pleasing ariation and are easy to make.

Just add one and one-half cups finely chopped bananas to your favorite waffle batter. Then serve them with tiny broiled sausages. You'll find the combination is very

ORIENTAL FOODS ARE NOW AMERICANIZED

Chop Suey and Curries Are Tasty Addition to Yankee Menus.

Oriental foods like chop suey and curries are no longer strangers at ng of dough. Slice off and bake in the American table. In fact, somenot oven (400 degrees) for 10 to 12 one has gone so far as to label chop suey a Yankee creation with an Oriental name.

A good home recipe for chop suey is an important page in any family's cook book. To keep it on a budget basis it need not include all the Oriental ingredients. If a change from the steamed rice, that necessary part of the dish, is required, steamed noodles or a dry reakfast cereal may be substituted. Here are a number of dishes which substitute dry cereal as an ngredient and a topping:

Chop Suey. Two cups boiling water. Three bouillon cubes. Three tablespoons soy sauce, One pound diced fresh pork. One-third cup flour. One-half cup mushrooms (four ounce can) One cup sliced onion. Three cups celery strips. Three tablespoons butter. Four cups crisp rice cereal.

Pour boiling water over bouillon cubes and soy sauce to make stock. Brown meat in heavy frying pan. Blend in flour, remove from heat and stir in stock slowly. Add mushrooms and mushroom fuice. nion and celery. Cover and cook slowly about 30 minutes, stirring occasionally to prevent sticking. Melt butter, add crisp rice cereal and heat thoroughly in oven or ver low heat on top unit, stirring frequently. Serve chop suey around a mound of hot buttered crisp rice cereal. Yield: Five one-cup serv

Curried Veal. Two cups sliced onion. One-half teaspoon minced garlic. One cup diced celery. Three tablespoons fat. One teaspoon curry powder. One teaspoon salt. One-eighth teaspoon pepper. Two tablespoons flour. Two cups milk. Two cups diced cooked veal. One-third cup quartered almonds

One chopped pimiento. Three cups crisp rice cereal. Three tablespoons melted butter Cook onion, garlic and celery in fat until lightly browned. Combine urry powder, salt, pepper and stir into first mixture. Add slowly, stirring constantly. Cook until smooth. Add veal, nutmeats and pimiento; simmer about 1) minutes. Combine crisp cereal and butter and heat thoroughly. Arrange on platter and serve with buttered crisp rice cereal center. Yield: Six servings.

Curried Shrimp. Six cups sliced onion. Three tablespoons fat. Two tablespoons curry powder. One teaspoon salt. Speck cayenne pepper. One cup milk. tablespoon Worcestershire

Two cups shredded cocoanut. One tablespoon butter. Two cups crisp rice cereal.

Cook onion slightly in fat. Com-bine flour, curry powder, salt and cayenne pepper with some of the milk to form a smooth paste: add emaining milk and Worcestershire sauce; stir until smooth and add to onion, mixing well. Clean shrimp, removing black veln. Add with cocoanut to first mixture; cover and simmer for about 20 min Melt butter, add crisp rice cereal and heat, stirring constantly Pour curried shrimp on platter in ring form and heat hot buttered crisp rice cereal in center. In this, specialists of the Bureau of Home Economics answer some of the more common queries about caning vegetables. ning vegetables.

Equipment Needed. Q. What kind of a canner is needed for putting up green peas and beans?

A. Peas and beans, like practically all vegetables but tomatoes, are non-acid foods. Non-acid foods, if canned, should be processed in a steam pressure canner. Only with one of these is it possible to get temperatures of from 240 degrees to 250 degrees Fahrenheitthe heat necessary to sterilize the vegetables within a reasonable length of time.

It is unsafe to can non-acid vegetables in a water bath or an oven canner, or in a steam canner withut pressure, because the temperaure in them never gets above the emperature it is impossible to kill he dangerous botulinus bacteria that may be in the vegetables unless containers are processed 6 to 10 hours, or even longer. If allowed to live, these bacteria may roduce a toxin in the food.
Q. Does it make any difference what size of container is used for canning vegetables?

A. For most vegetables, pint or quart jars and number 2 or 3 tin can are the best sizes. Pint jars and No. 2 cans are best for tender, green peas, because they will became overcooked and mushy with the longer processing needed for larger containers. If corn is canned in quart jars or No. 3 cans it should be put up whole grain style—cut from the cob without scraping. It's well to keep the con-tainers small because heat penetrates thick cream-style corn very

Q. Is it advisable to can corn or red-colored vegetables in tin

A. Yes, practically all vegetables that may be canned may be canned Different types of cans have been developed for certain vegetables. There are special Cenamel tins for corn, succotash, ima, and red kidney beans. For red-colored vegetables - beets and imentos-and for pumpkin and uash, use R-enamel cans. These vegetables, if canned in plain tin, may react chemically with the metal. Some change colors and othchanges, although they may not affect the wholesomeness of the food, do detract from the appearance. Pickled beets should be canned in

Q. Is it all right to use rubber rings a second time? A. No, the best policy is to buy the rings new each year. They should be of good quality to withstand the temperature of processing.
A simple test is to double the ring together and press the fold with the fingers. The rubber should not crack. A good rubber ring will also stretch to twice is length and snap back into shape.

Method.

Q. How nearly full should the containers be packed?

A. Allow a little room at the top head space—for expansion of food during processing. Measured from a straight edge laid across the top of a glass jar, the needs to be about 1/2 inch for all vegetables except corn, peas and lima beans. For these starchy vegetables, which expand more, allow one inch. In No. 2 tin cans 5-16 inch head space is enough for most foods. For No. 3 tin cans allow % to 1/2 inch. Always cover the vegetables with hot

Q. If much canning liquid is lost from the jars during processing is it all right to replace some of this liquid with water?

Aury Fairy

A. Jars should not be opened after processing until it's time to use the vegetables. When they are opened they are no longer sterile and must be reprocessed in order to keep. Some liquid will always be lost from glass jars, but this can be kept to a minimum by careful con-trol of the temperature. Maintain a constant pressure. At the end of the processing period take the canner off the fire and let it cool gradually until the pressure gauge reads "zero." Then immediately open the petcock—gradually so that there is no sudden rushing out of steam.

Miscellaneous.

Q. Is it possible to can every kind of vegetable at home?

A. It is not recommended that vegetables of the catbage family—broccoli, brussels sprouts, cabbage, turnips, cauliflower, kohlrabi—be canned. These vegetables contain sulfur compounds that break down during processing and give the food a disagreeable taste and odor, and insatisfactory color and texture.

"Why, you've been here just seven days," Naomi replied.

"Oh, my," Judy protested in surprise, seven days! And I told Mamma I would stay only four weeks! I think I better go

To Judy, the figure 7 seems to be more mportant than 4, although one referred to days and the other to weeks. Like all such youngsters, she has a vague sense of time. Most parents will be surprised to know that the average child doesn't know even the difference between afternoon and morning until he is 6 years old. If youngsters cannot get their bearings with reference to morning versus evening, is it any wonder that they seem little influenced by offers of deferred rewards, as a promised trip to Grandma's next month, or a visit downtown nex Saturday.

PARENTS WILL OFTEN expect far more of a child than the youngster is capable of. A child's mind keeps growing in sheer capacity to remember any reason, until the child attains the age of about 16 years. Then we become mental adults. This doesn't mean that we cannot learn millions of new ideas or advance further in the school system after that, but it indicates that our mental motor, so to speak has attained its maximum "horse power."

It is wrong, therefore, to defer punishment until father gets home in the evening, for the child may scarcely understand at that belated date why he is being chastised. If punishment is to be given, it should occur as near the naughty act as possible.

Children have no trouble at all believing in giants and fairies, for they are surrounded by adult parents and teachers who tower above them. They measure distance in terms of their own height and length of stride. Thus, the back yard seems twice as large to Judy as it does

THE SCHOOL ROOM will seem much larger to her when she enters kindergarten than if she were to return to that same classroom after she is grown. Many of you readers have experienced this same sensation when you returned to your childhood neighborhood or school. In memory it has always seemed large. Now that you walk through it as an adult, you are surprised at its dwarfed nature.

A child of Judy's age not only thinks its parents are giants, but also ascribes omniscience to them, for they can out-think a child, and perform mental deductions of which their youngster is not capable.

Some months ago I was visiting in the country. A little girl of 6 years from the neighboring farm rushed into the house and excitedly inquired:

"I'll bet you can't guess who drove the horses this morning?" Before I could respond, a 12-year-old girl bluntly retorted, "Sure Fighter Wears

"How did you know?" asked the crestfallen little girl, feeling that somebody must have told us of her feat.

The "little bird" that supposedly tells parents things which their youngsters deem secrets, simply amounts to the extra 10 years or more of mental age which we possess and which therefore permit us to Trouble Is Mechanical, Activity Helps Rather Than Harms.

To answer the last question immediately and get it out of the way, it is certainly all right for any person with any kind of heart trouble to go automobile riding.

As to the larger issue, there is always a great deal of unnecessary fear engendered in a nousehold when the pronouncement of "heart disease" is made. In the course of time the patient and the house-hold get used to the idea. They find the patient is not as fragile as they thought; in fact, he is pretty tough. He doesn't fall dead if he gets up to answer the telephone or when he climbs the stairs. he begins to allow himself considerable activity and forgets for most of the 24 hours that he has "heart disease."

I have seen patients live thus to old age, with a history of heart dis-ease for 40 or 50 years, and bury, as the grim saying goes, all the rest of the family.

(Parenthetically, I wish I could induce everyone to stop using such an expression as "I buried my mother last week." It brings up a
